Death of Priest on City Line Was Lamentable Tragedy

THE LOCAL LINK with the death of The Rev. Clarence E. Shaffrey, S.J., head of the Department of Biology at St. Joseph's College, lies in the fact that less than two weeks before the tragic accident the priest, in a conversation with a Narberth resident, said that his associates were constantly warning him that he was apt to meet his doom unless he was more careful in crossing City Line on his way to the faculty residence. As is now so sadly known, exactly what had been feared came to pass. The priest was run down February 14, 1947, by a motorist who said he was confused by glaring lights. He died within a half-hour.

The life-story of this physician-priest will provide a notable page in the Philadelphia book, and it will also adorn the archives of Jefferson Medical College. When he put his stamp of approval on a neophyte seeking to be a medical doctor, that was enough for Jefferson and other schools, and there is no record of any one of his candidates failing to make the final grade. More than 250 young men (some from Narberth) completed their pre-medical courses and ultimately received their M. D. Degree. Many more were told the profession was not for them and were advised to pursue other studies. He was a hard task-master, but a beloved man of large talent, and the grief at his untimely departure is deep and widespread.

* * * * *

WHAT THE AUTHORITIES plan to do with the increasing confusion in the neighborhood of the 54th Street intersection is not the least of their problems, but it would seem that perhaps a small start could be made by the constant presence of at least two officers on foot. Patrol cars will not fill the bill, but not even the cars are to be seen invariably in this hectic section. Another thing, of course, is the divided accountability, the township and the city, but that surely is no barrier to a safer condition, and some joint arrangement is in order, if one has not already been made.

None of this is to imply that the absence of the police (if they were absent) is responsible for the priest's death or for the other accidents in the vicinity that have been reported. It is, however, a recommendation that facts be faced with reference to the terrific development of 54th and City Line and regulations devised which may help to control the situation before it gets out of hand completely.

It is high-priced territory which is involved, and only those who do a big volume business, attracting many patrons, can afford to locate there. An idea of its value is suggested by the $15,000 per annum rent which Horn and Hardart is said to pay for the acre or so they occupy. Incidentally, the site is popularly associated with the original Black Horse Tavern, but that historic hostelry was on the northwest corner.

As the restaurant chain made all the improvements at their own expense on another man's land, and is believed to pay more than $1200 per month for mere tenancy, it could denote that the ground alone is worth, on a 5% basis, in the neighborhood of a quarter-million dollars. That sounds like 42nd and Broadway or perhaps the ocean-front. The point is that only sections where people swarm can absorb such extreme prices, and each new venture brings still more people. A theater is about to add to the traffic, and it takes no prophet to predict that the next few years will see other things arrive which will produce a teeming throng at all hours of the day and night.

At 69th Street similar conditions exist, and while that hit-and-miss maelstrom has more space available, the Delaware County authorities appear to have done little to rid the scene of its Klondike aspect nor the perils that constantly lurk there.

The free-parking facilities at 54th and City Line provided by the various operators are good, in fact, excellent, but it is a question if the need of crossing thick traffic to get in and out of them can be permitted as the activity increases. Perhaps the theater also has in mind its own parking lot, which, of course, is desirable, but does it have to face on City Line or is there a more protected place for this convenience?

What to do is not the concern of only city and township officials, but those who have laid down such heavy business stakes also have need of the planning engineers, as well as community coordination of a high order, and it would seem they cannot bestir themselves too quickly.

Meantime, the police are needed, urgently needed, even more so than at what is reputed to be Philadelphia's most dangerous corner, Broad Street and Columbia Avenue, where two men on foot are on constant duty. Also, it is essential that all highway parking on City Line should be banned instanter, for no small part of the snarled conditions appears to be due to the manner in which the already too narrow traffic lanes are diminished by the cars strung along the curb-lines.

Nor should the prospect of additional apartments along Old Lancaster Road be overlooked in the further survey which seems advisable, as where several hundred perons live on a plot where only several lived before, it means the city has arrived in a suburban section woefully ill-equipped to receive it.

Borough School Seeks to Raise Money For 26 Employes' Cost-of-Living Raise

$61,000 Temple Fund Set up by Dr. T. L. Bolton

Ten years ago Dr. Thaddeus L. Bolton retired as head of the Department o Psychology at Temple University—now he has set up a $61,000 trust fund for research at Temple to insure that his work will be continued.

Dr. Bolton, now professor emeritus at the University, built up the Psychology Department after he was appointed in 1917 as the first psychology instructor there. Since 1923 he has lived at 231 Wayne ave., Narberth.

In setting up the trust fund, Dr. Bolton specified that one-half of the income be used for research by staff and students, the remainder to be applied to the establishment of a Thaddeus L. Bolton Professorship.

He knows how much that trust fund will mean to students and professors, because he had a very hard row to hoe when he started out along the academic road.

Eighty-one years ago, Thaddeus L. Bolon was born in Sonoro, Mississippi, the son of William Bolton, an English farmer who settled in America in 1847. His mother was the former Charlotte Dart, of Ohio.

At the age of 10 he went to Mt. Morris College in Illinois, where he stayed until he transferred to the University of Michigan. There he studied under John Dewey, the eminent teacher and philosopher.

During his undergraduate days the young Thaddeus Bolton earned

Ida Buckman At Age Of 71 Dies In City

Was One Of The Organizers Of The Narberth Library

Funeral services for Miss Ida Buckman, one of the organizers of the Narberth Library in 1921 and an active borough clubwoman, were held Tuesday afternoon in Trenton, N. J.

Miss Buckman, who was 71 years old, died Friday in Joseph Price Hospital, Philadelphia after a short illness. For the past 15 years she had lived at 13 Shirley Rd., and before that she had lived for 12 years on Wynnewood Rd.

Miss Buckman, a native of Bucks County, was a member of the Fortnightly Literary Club of Narberth, the Bala-Cynwyd Garden Club and the Philomusian Club. She was also a member of the Merion Friends Meeting.

In addition to her nephew, Buckman Katzenbaugh, an intern at University Hospital, Philadelphia, Miss Buckman is also survived by her brother and two sisters.

Burial was in the family plot in Morrisville Cemetery, Morrisville, Pa.

New Narberth Pastor

THE REV. ROBERT J. LAMONT

New pastor of the Narberth Presbyterian Church, will be formally installed Tuesday, March 25, at a special evening service. He will preach his first sermon at the church Palm Sunday, March 30.

Court Asked if Boro Can Borrow Money, Revise Budget Funds

Public Chest X-Rays To Be Given Here

Chest X-ray examinations will be given to adults in the Nurse's Office of Narberth Public School three days during the week of March 3.

Monday, Mar. 3, the examinations will be given from 5 to 8.30 P. M.; Tuesday, Mar. 4, from 10.30 A. M. to Noon and from 1.30 to 4 P. M.; and Wednesday, Mar. 5, from 5 to 8.30 P. M.

The examinations are open to the general public and are free, although voluntary contributions may be made.

Teachers Join School Board In Court Test

Narberth School District officials this week asked the courts for permission to borrow additional funds and to transfer monies from one account to another within the 1946-47 school ubdget.

Aim of the request, according to Roland Fleer, School District solicitor, is to grant an immediate cost-of-living increase to the 26 employes of Narberth Public School.

Seek Court Opinion

Wednesday morning Fleer appeared before Judge George C. Corson in Norristown asking a declaratory judgment whether or not the State School Code allows the borrowing of money and the transference of budget accounts.

School District officials and the Salary Committee of the Narberth Teachers' Association joined in the petition.

Action by the teachers and School District officials followed a request by the teachers at the School Board's January meeting for an increase of $200 for all employes.

At the meeting, School Board officials sought the legal advice of Solicitor Fleer on ways and means of raising funds necessary to grant the teachers' salary request.

Last Increase $200

Last increase received by Narberth teachers and other school employes was in September, last year, when they were granted a $200 flat raise. Present salary minimum is $2000 a year.

At Monday night's meeting of the Narberth School Parent-Teachers' Association a resolution asking that "something be done about increasing teachers' salaries" was unanimously passed. Copies of the resolution have been sent to the School Board.

Parents' Night Will Be Held By Girl Scouts

Phila. Council Director To Address First Yearly Event Of Local Scouts

Miss Martha Prendergast, executive director of the Philadelphia Council of Girl Scouts, will address the first annual Narberth Girl Scout Parents' Night, to be held in the Narberth Community Building Friday, February 21, at 730 P. M.

The event, first of its kind to be held in Narberth, aims to help parents, scouts and leaders to know each other better, and to more thoroughly understand the problems confronting each group.

Mrs. Theodore Stieber, Neighborhood Chairmon for Narberth, has announced that Mrs. Richard S. Berkey will preside at the meeting, while Mrs. E. R. Pirscher, chairman of the senior scout troop committee, will be in charge of refreshments.

In addition to Miss Prendergast's talk, the Brownies, led by Mrs. R. C. Watts; troop 20, led by Mrs. J. C. Harris and Mrs. Harrison Berry; troop 368, led by Mrs. Richard Berkey and Mrs. Raymond o Krug, and the senior troop, led by Mrs. John Ford, will present skits to illustrate the 10 program fields in which the scouts earn merit badges.

Cookies made by the girls and served as refreshments will be a practical demonstration of the field of homemaking. A sound film on Girl Scout activities will be shown.

Dr. A. J. Flynn To Talk Here On Communism

The Rev. Dr. Anthony J. Flynn, former president of Immaculata college, will speak on "What is Communism" in the Church Hall of St. Margaret's Church, Narberth, the evening of Tuesday, Feb. 25.

The lecture, to which all members of St. Margaret's Parish have been invited, is being sponsored by the Holy Name Society of the Borough church.

The Rev. Dr. Flynn is the co-author of several texts on the Catholic Religion now in wide use and has conducted courses and seminars on Communism for several years. He is currently Professor of Religion of Rosemont College and the College of Chestnut Hill.

Dr. A. Blackwood To Speak Sunday At Boro Church

Dr. Andrew W. Blackwood will speak on "The Faith That Conquers Fears" at the 11 o'clock service Sunday at the Narberth Presbyterian Church. At 4 o'clock his sermon will be a continuation of his sermons on the Parable About Prayer.

Junior C. E., for boys and girls in the first five grades of school, is held at 4 each Sunday afternoon. Miss Jean Havlick is the superintendent.

Intermediate C. E. at 5.15 is for children in the sixth, seventh and eighth grades of school, and is under the leadership of Mrs. James A. McDill.

Senior C. E. for the high school young people is sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Titus W. Strawhecker. This past Sunday Beverly Hanson spoke on "What Can We Do About Sharing Christ?" This week Virginia Keller takes up the subject: "What Follows a Decision?" at 5.15 P. M.

The speaker at the Wednesday evening prayer meetng service will be the Rev. James R. Gailey, from the Board of Christian Education of the Philadelphia Presbytery.

Mrs. M. Dixon Succumbs At 74

Was Widow Of Insurance Executive

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Duffield Dixon, of 113 Rockland Ave., Narberth, were held Friday afternoon from the Frankenfield Funeral Home, Simpson and Athens Ave., Ardmore.

Mrs. Dixon, who was 74, died last Tuesday at Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, after a long illness.

Mrs. Dixon, the daughter of Zebulon Duffield, a descendent of Dr. Thomas Wynne, William Penn's physician, was born at the corner of Levering Mill Rd. and Montgomery Ave.,Cynwd. She was the widow of George E. Dixon, controller of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. who died 25 years ago.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Horace Simmermann and Mrs. George Dobbins, with whom she lived. and her brother, Louis Duffield, of Atlantic City, N. J.

Mrs. Dixon is also survived by her niece, Mrs. William E. Clear, of 108 Upland Terrace, Bala. Interment was in West Laurel Hill Cemetery.

Cause Of Apt. Fire Still Not Set; Damage $60,000

The cause of the $60,000 Merion Manor Apartments fire Saturday afternoon has not been determined Fire Marshall Harvey Benson said Wednesday. He did say that the fire, which started in the basement storage room, might have been caused by a forgotten cigarette or by sparks from the nearby incinerator.

Granville Ramey, manager of the apartment building, estimated damage to the structure at $25,000, and Benson said cost of repairing fire, water and smoke damage would boost the total damage to $60,000.

Deputy Fire Marshall William Titlow said it would be difficult finding anyone admitting he was in the storage room that day. He credited fire walls with confining the flames to Section G, one of the building's seven wings.

The combined fire companies of Narberth, Bala-Cynwyd and Ardmore extinguished the blaze at 6:30 p. m., four hours after Mrs. Alice Pender, a first-floor tenant, noticed heavy smoke pouring from a basement window.

Town Talk

By DOROTHY M. OGDEN

A number of people have inquired about a Bob Russell Fund for the Borough of Narberth and Lower Merion Township.

Bob, you know, is the longtime Narberth resident who was struck down in a double automobile crash at the corner of Upland and Eagle Rds., Manoa, last January 15. As a result of the accident, he lost both legs; he had already lost an arm during his college days.

He is married to the former Margaret Eyre, a Borough resident, and they lived in Narberth until 1940.

Haverford Township friends and neighbors have collected more than $1000 to give Bob and his wonderful wife to help them over a hard time.

I haven't heard of a drive's being started in the Township or Borough, but in response to inquiries about where to send money and gifts, I've been telling people to send it to Earle March, assistant secretary of Haverford Township, who is on the committee in charge of the fund. He'll see to it that the money is contributed to the right spot.

* * *

By the way, it came to our attention that the good neighbor who left that wonderful basket of fruit and meat on the doorstep of the Russells' home a 512 Upland Rd., Manoa, was J. Barratt Conner, of 320 Cynwyd Rd., Cynwyd, ex-president of the Bala-Cynwyd Neighborhood Club.

Congratulations to our colleague, Mike Boucher, of the Ardmore Chronicle. He and his pretty wife, Mary, just became the proud parents of a baby girl, Eugenia Marie. She was born last Wednesday at St. Joseph's Hospital, Philadelphia.

Don Peters, the Wynnewood builder, has broken ground for the second unit of his three-unit apartment project at the corner of Wynnewood Rd. and Lancaster Ave., Wynnewood. He hopes to get the third started very soon . . . the steel has already arrived for the first one.

John J. Hornsey, Jr., School Board member from Penn Wynne, certainly did give the Penn Wynne Library Association a boost at the board's Monday night meeting.

After the board read the association's letter asking for more funds during the coming year (they are raising money for their building expansion themselves, but an extra appropriation will enable them to render their excellent service to the community at the same time they expand) Hornsey told the board that the association did a wonderful job for the community and that the women who helped the association were the hardest workers he'd ever seen.

P.-T. A. Is Told Of Importance Of Good Books

Panel Discussion Held At Meeting Of Board Group

Parents should take time to read good books with their children, Mrs. P. N. Collins told members of the Narberth Parent-Teachers' Association Monday night at their 50th Anniversary meeting.

Mrs. Collins was one of several speakers taking part in a panel discussion at the meeting on "The Movies, Radio and Literature—Their Effect on Your Children."

Good Books Important

The importance of having good reading material on a child's level in the home library was also emphasized by Mrs. Collins, who spoke on the role of the home in the discussion.

Speaking for the church was the Rev. C. A. Senft, pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church. Roland Fleer, School Board solicitior, spoke on the role of the community.

W. J. Drennan, School principal and leader of the discussion, told the meeting that "it is the concern of parents, the school and the church to strengthen the moral fiber of our children so that they know right from wrong."

"If children have a good moral and religious background," he said, "they won't go too far afield."

Narberth Surveys

Surveys taken in Narberth, Drennan told the meeting, indicate that younger children read a great number of comic books each week. Fifty percent attend at least one motion picture show per week, 25 percent two or more, Drennan said, emphasizing their importance of inshaping the minds of children.

The children of the Borough, Drennan said, however, show good taste in their selection of the better kind of comic books they do read.

A business meeting and a social hour followed the panel discussion.

Panel of Americans Appears Here

Members of "The Panel of Amerilans," Chinese-American and Mexican-American — making a nationwide tour to combat cultural and racial prejudice, appeared Thursday morning at Lower Merion Senior High School.

Other local appearances of the panel were at Bryn Mawr College Sunday evening, at the Baldwin School Monday, and at the Shipley School Monday.

The Philadelphia visit of the six students, first stop of their tour, is being sponsored by the Intercultural Committee of the United Nations Council of Philadelphia.

Two Narberth Residents Get Temple Degrees

Two Narberth residents were awarded degrees at mid-year commencement exercises of Temple University held Saturday morning.

They were: Gertrude Snowden, of 220 Wright Ave., Master of Education, and Otto Finkbeiner, of 300 Essex Ave., Bachelor of Science.

Blind School Choir Will Sing At Church Here

Young People From Overbrook Institution Guests Of Methodists

The choir of the Overbrook School for the Blind will be guests at the evening worship service of the Narberth Methodist Church Sunday evening, February 23, at 7.45 o'clock.

The program will begin with a worship service, led by the pastor, the Rev. Harold D. Flood. Following the period of worship, the choir, under the direction of Harold W. Gilbert, will present a program of sacred music.

Selections by Chorus

The first numbers by the choir will be: "Now Let All the Heavens Adore Thee," by Bach, and "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring," by Bach. These will be followed by a vocal solo by Ralph Jopling, "Ave Maria," by Schubert.

Shirley Trexler will then play a piano solo: 'Butterfly," by Merkel, which will be followed by two selections by the choir: "The Lamb," bf Charles Wood, and "Greater Love Hath No Man," by Ireland.

Thomas Good will play two piano solos: "Gavotte," by Bach, and "Valse," by Chopin. These will be followed by the final selections by the choir: "Ave Maria," by Gounod-Bach, and "With a Voice of Singing," by Shaw.

Fellowship Period

Following the program of music the young people of the church will entertain the young people from the Overbrook Blind School at an informal fellowship period in the church parlor.

This visitation by these talented young people has been arranged through the effort of Miss Dorothy White, a member of the local church who is serving on the faculty of the Overbrook School.

Narberth Cub Pack No. 212 To Prepare History Of Group

Warren Miller has been named chairman of a special committee to prepare a history of Narberth Cub Pack No. 212, according to an announcement this week by Sterling Chain, chairman of the Pack Committee.

A window display marking Boy Scout Week was arranged at Davis' Store in Narberth by Ernest Gavin, William Clear and Warren Miller.

The display included an American uag and pack banner, a cub uniform, numerals and insignia, cub books and an advancement chart showing the progress of each club.

Cub Master Sam Barclay has reported that of the six cubs who graduated from the pack, five have already joined the scouts. They are Willis Ludwig, Richard Segermark, Don Annett and Eldon Sutton, who have joined Narberth Troop No. 1, and Donald Drain, fho has joined Narberth Troop No. 2.

Traffic Arrests Reach Eleven

Observance Of Boro Speed Law Asked

Traffic violations in Narberth totalled five last month, in addition to six reckless driving violations.

Only four of the reckless driving violations were pressed by Magistrate Vincent Colelli; two were discharged.

When the report of the Public Safety Committee was read at Borough Council meeting last Monday night, Chairman Franklin P. Hutchinson reminded Council that the Borough had resolved to support the Montgomery County Police Chiefs Association petition to the Legislature to pass a bill allowing "arrest on sight" of reckless drivers.

At the same time, Burgess Richard L. Miller asked residents not exceed the Borough's speed limit of 25 miles an hour.

In addition to the traffic violations, there were 12 parking violations, four overtime parking tickets issued, one property damage accident and one personal injury accident during January.

Boro To Pay $33 Damages To Avoid Fight In Court

Little did the Borough think that when Philip W. Dimon ran into a curbstone at the corner of Narberth Park and Windsor Ave. last October 27, it would be footing the bill for $33.93 damage to his car.

Dimon alleges that the depression at the drainage inlet there caused that much damage. The Borough should assume liability in the matter, he told them.

At last week's meeting, members of Council debated whether or not Dimon should be recompensed. Upon the recommendation of Borough Solicitor Henry A. Frye, Council agreed by a vote of three to two to allow the claim. William P. Davis and Sterling M. Chain were the minority.

Dimon claimed that the drainage inlet was obscured by leaves, but George W. Suplee, Director of Public Works, stated that Dimon told him at the time of the accident he had been showing his son where Narbrook Park was located and had run up on the curb.

Frye recommended payment of the claim, because, he said, he felt it would be less expensive than taking it to court.

Local Congressmen Vote Tenure Curb

Both local congressmen, E. Wallace Chadwick and Samuel K. McConnell, Jr., Republicans, of Delaware and Montgomery Counties, voted in favor of a constitutional amendment limiting Presidential tenure to two terms.

The measure was passed by a vote of 285 to 121. If the House bill passes the Senate, it will be submitted to the states for ratification.

Boro Receives $830 Of State Funds

G. Harold Wagner, Auditor General of Pennsylvania, this week approved the payment of $830.62 to the Borough of Narberth. The money represents the quarterly distribution of a $17,000,000 appropriation from the Motor License Fund.

Use of the funds is limited to street, road and bridge construction, repair and maintenance. The Borough is required to submit semi-annual reports, showing the work that has been completed under the provisions of the 1945 Legislature Act, and the cost thereof.

Twp. Receives $12,814 Of State Motor Fund

G. Harold Wagner, Auditor General of Pennsylvania, this week approved payment of $12,814.62 to Lower Merion Township. The money represents the quarterly distribution out of a $17,000,000 appropriation from the Motor License Fund, as provided for by the 1945 Legislature.

Use of the money is limited to street, road nad bridge construction, repair and maintenance. The Township is required to submit semi-annual reports. showing the work that has been completed and the cost thereof.

Major and Mrs. Walter G. Long, of "Braeside Farm," Quakertown, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Winifred Long, to Lawrenze Z .Shultzaberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. hCarles Shultzaberger, of Ardmore.

Mt. McKinley, highest peak on the North American continent, rises abruptly to 17,000 feet from a plateau less than 3,000 feet high.

New England's apple orchards produced an estimated 283,000 bushels of Cortlands in 1946.

Annual Devon Horse Show And Fair Set for May

The Devon Horse Show and Country Fair will be held this year from May 27 through May 31. Revived last year in time to observe its golden anniversary, the show will as usual be held in the famed Wanamaker oval at Devon.

Mrs. Herman K. Grange, of Villanova, will again assume the chairmanship of the country fair committee, and her assisting chairman will be Mrs. Clarence A. Warden, Jr., Ardmore. Other members of the executive committee include Mrs. Woodward W. Corkran, treasurer; and Mrs. Richard E. Hanson, Mrs. John Y. Huber, Jr., Mrs. Philip L. Lee and Mrs. Clarence J. Lewis, Jr.

William H. Ashton, of Edgemont, will be chairman of the horse show committee. Working with him will be Charlton Yarnell, continuing as president; Ward Sullivan, secretary, and Algerman A. Craven horse show secretary.

Serving on the advisory board of the fair are Mrs. Roland T. Addis, Mrs. Donald Alexander, Mrs. Livingston L. Biddle, Mrs. Russell A. Cannon, Mrs. Charles C. G. Chaplin, Mrs. Morris Cheston, Mrs. M. Withington Clement, Mrs. Isaac H. Clothier, Jr., Mrs. William J. Clothier, Jr., Mrs. J. Howell Cummings, Jr.

Mrs. William T. Dickson, Mrs. Joseph L. Eastwick, Mrs. Samuel B. Eckert, Mrs. Benjamin Eshleman, Mrs. Howard Fair, Mrs. N. Myers Fitler, Mrs. Horace B. Hare, Mrs. William C. Hunneman, Jr., Mrs. Henr V. Jarrett, Mrs. George B. Junkin, Mrs. Arthur C. Kaufman, Mrs. Roderick G. Kellett, Mrs. J. Kearsley Mitchell, Mrs. William R. Mooney, Mrs. Charles C. Norris, Jr.

Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson, Mrs. J. Howard Pew, Mrs. Joseph N. Pew, Jr., Mrs. William M. Prizer, Mrs. S. Weston Scott, Mrs. Theodore C. Sheaffer, Mrs. James R. Sinkler, Mrs. Joseph N. Snellenburg, Mrs. John A. Stevenson, Mrs. Frederick B. Stimson, Mrs. H. Birchard Taylor, Mrs. John B. Thayer, 3d and Mrs. E. Shippen Willing.

It has been announced that the Devon Cottage this year will be new and surprisingly different. The reins of its management have been placed in the hands of Mrs. Philip L. Lee and Mrs. W. Lippincott Colket, who will annocnce complete details at a later date.

Another addition to the 1947 program will be the inauguration of "Devon Country Fair on Walnut Street,' a two-day mid-town preview fair originated for the 50th anniversary show last ear, as a permanent adjunct of the annual Devon show. Mrs. John Y. Huber, Jr., will again be its chairman, while Mrs. Horace B. Hare will head its grogram of events. Present plans call for it to be held on Walnut St., from Broad t o18th St., on April 16 and 17.

Heading the numerous committees in charge of various details of the three-day affair are the following:

Mrs. Edward W. Shober heads the committee in charge of the automobile; Mrs. Theodore C. Scull is chairman of balloons. Mrs. Harry Haas and Mrs. S. Gartland Horan are co-chairmen of the cafeteria, whose honorary chairman is Mrs. Lewis C. Johnson.

Other Devon Country Fair committee chairmen are Mrs. J. Malcolm Johnston, candy; Mrs. Clarence J. Lewis, Jr., concessions; Mrs. Tristram C. Colket, entertainment; Mrs. Thomas S. Gates, Jr., garden booth; Mrs. Roland T. Addis and Mrs. Richard E. Hansen, grounds; Mrs. Harry T. Saylor, hot dogs; Mrs. Owen B. Rhoads, ice-cream; Mrs. Joiseph N. Pew, Jr., information booth; Mrs. Leicester Lewis, occupational therapy; and Mrs. Arthur P. Baugh, chairman of the Bryn Mawr Hospital shop.

Mrs. Curtin Winsor will arrange for and direct the pony rides for the small fry, and Mrs. Romain C. Hasrick will again handle the sandwich department. Mrs. Karl R. Schoettle is chairman of the soft drinks stand; Mrs. Samuel McCreery heads the large and busy committee for the tea house, one of the show's most delightful cases, and Mrs. Edward D. Atlee will handle the tobacco booths.

More than 50,000 different useful things are made from rubber.

Rabbi To Be Introduced At Tea Monday Eve.

Martin Berkowitz, new rabbi of Temple Arath Israel, will be introduced to members of the Main Line Hadassah at a tea Monday evening, Feb. 24, at 8:30 P. M. at 515 Lancaster Ave., Haverford.

Baroness De Polenzsga Speaks at Club Meeting

"It will be disastrous if the United States and Great Britain withdraw from Germany and show the disinterest after this war that they showed after the last," said Helena, the Baroness of Polenzska, at a meeting of the Norberth Woman's Community Club Tuesday afternoon.

A native of Minnesota, the Baroness married one of the most influential pre-Hitler Noblemen of Germany. After her husband died during the war, the Baroness was taken a political prisoner, and her castle home was confiscated by the Nazis and used as a prison.

Maintaining that Hitler was not dead and that he still had a fanatical hold over the youth of Germany, the Baroness said we should keep a constant vigilance over and control of every phase of German life, particularly the schools. "We're fooling ourselves if we think the signing of peace treaties will solve anything," she said.

Speaking of Hitler, whom she knew personally, the Baroness said he was a violent and vicious man, a fanatical moron, a repulsive, obnoxious and boring individual.

After the Nazis had turned her castle into a prison, she said they made extensive use of the dungeons and the medieval torture machines therein. "The monstrosities caried on by the German war lords is beyond description and beyond believing," she said.

She also told of her own experiences in prison during which time she was tortured and kept on a diet of black bread and thin gruel. "I am alive now and physically and mentally well," she said, "but there are thousands who were not so lucky as I."

The hostesses at the meeting were Mrs. C. J. Bruneel and Mrs. Robert Freeman. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. C. P. Fowler and Mrs. Cary Starr, both past presidents.

Club members are reminded of a trip to Campbell's Soup Plant, Camden, planned by the Home Department. To start promptly at 1 P. M., the tour will be made on Wednesday, February 26. Those wishing to go are asked to call Mrs. W. Ralph Giles, home chairman, at Narberth 2709-J, or Mrs. Caryl E Starr, at Narberth 4180.

Community Health-Civic Assn. Issues Annual Report For 1946

The annual report of the Community Health and Civic Association was issued this week. The report lists the activities and achievements of the association during 1946.

Public health nurses of the Community Health and Civic Association made 10,309 visits in Haverford and Lower Merion Townships during 1946. They spent 2,424 days on duty and traveled 37,305 miles.

New Group Formed

Early in 1946, the housing committee of the association recognized that if headway was to be made in solving the desperate housing problem, an attack on a community-wide basis would be necessary.

The formation of a new committee was proposed, with representation from each of the community organizations, to be known as the Emergency Housing Committee. The facilities of the Community Health and Civic Association were offered as an information and referral center.

Many of the rooms listed as available were the result of an appeal made from church pulpits, sponsored by the Main Line Federation of Churches.

The association supported or initiated a number of regional planning and zoning projects in 1946.

Backed Road Planning

Lower Merion Township was supported in its plan to plot the future width of certain roads for which eventual widening seemed necessary. The plan was opposed by many who feared it would lower property values.

Progress in traffic safety was made through the inauguration by Lower Merion of a safe-driving course for high school students. There was progress, also, in enlisting public interest in a Thru-Way which would relieve Lancaster Ave. of much traffic between Philadelphia and Harrisburg.

Five community health centers for children provided medical and nursing supervision for youngsters under six years of age. A total of 106 sessions were held, attendance was 892; 355 individuals were served.

The school health program, a part-time nursing service, was conducted in nine schools. Nurses made 3782 health inspections, physicians with nurses assisting made 424 physical examinations; 615 home visits were made.

During 1946, the entire personnel of the Lower Merion Township School District and all students in the ninth and 12th grades were X-rayed for tuberculosis. Expansion of the tuberculosis prevention program is shown in the following comparisons for a three-year period:

1944 ..... 644 X-rayed
1945 ..... 800 X-rayed
1946 ..... 1,912 X-rayed

This X-ray program and follow-up visits to tuberculosis patients and their contacts is financed by the sale of Christmas Seals.

In 1946, field experience was made available for five graduate nurses enrolled as students in the Department of Nursing Education at the University of Pennsylvania.

An occupational therapist made 423 visits during 1946. This work is financed by the Soroptimist Club of the Main Line.

Benjamin M. Fowler, Jr., treasurer, listed disbursements of $45,270.12.

Narberth Juniors Stage Dance for New Members

Valentine hearts were featured at a covered dish supper and Valentine dance staged by the Narberth Junior Woman's Community Club Saturday evening.

At one end of the room was a huge Valentine heart edged with paper lace and centered with a silhouette portrait. The Valentine motif was further carried out with the centerpieces on the tables which were large red hearts and candles.

Given in honor of the 37 new members of the club, the dance was attended by more than 130 members and their husbands. Each new member was given a carnation corsage.

Mrs. William Harris, chairman of arts and crafts, and her committee, were in charge of the decorations. Mrs. William Borky handled the supper, and the dance arrangements were made by Mrs. George C. Stulting.

The new members include the following:

Mrs. George Albert, Mrs. J. B. Adams, Mrs. William S. Bradley, Mrs. A. H. Campbell, Mrs. Robert A. Class, Mrs. William Clipshaw, Mrs. Allan Cuthbert, Mrs. Joseph D'Alonzo, Mrs. H. J. Anxiety Feelings of Adults Affect Children in Home

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

Among the many thousands of letters I have received from parents there have not been nearly so many of them relating to anxieties in children as one might have expected.

"Dear Mr. Myers: My 7½ year old daughter is beginning to show signs of being worried and full of fears just as I myself am and as my own mother is also. My mother's health has never been good, and she always has been such a worrier over things big or little. Looking back as a child, I believe I was aware of her fear; (fearing electrical storms, going to town alone, etc.).

"So, now I realize I am too much like that myself . . . I've always been a nervous type with an overdose of fear. I sometimes feel I can't go shopping alone or, in a crowd, I am nervous; oh, all the usual nervous feelings nervous people get. I'm telling you this so you will know why I'm really anxious for my child.

Missing the Bus

"During all her first grade, her main worry was missing the bus to and from school. If the family (I have a 2½ year old son) takes a short automobile trip she's afraid we won't know the way back home. While we are downtown and I leave the car to go in a store, she doesn't want to stay in the car alone, says she is afraid I won't come back. My nurse tells me when I've gone to visit a friend for a short time she says, 'Suppose mother never comes back, what would we do?' and expresses her worry in some way. Yet her teacher told me last year she was the happiest child she had. Knowing how my mother is and how I am, I want to do anything I can to prevent her being so dependent and scared of going ahead in this life. A self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed."

As this mother herself observes, it is easy to see that her child has lived in an atmosphere of anxiety. This mother is quite correct in assuming that she and her mother need to conquer their own anxieties for this child's sake, if not for their own.

No Easy Task

Of course, we know they have no easy task, having been so long practiced at fretting and worrying. I did suggest to her that she might work in two directions:

1. To seek more interests and recreation which are cheerful and hopeful, read and see more that will make her laugh, and get lost in helping some other persons to be happy.

2. To guard herself, especially in that child's presence, against giving free expression to the anxieties she has.

As for the child, it is encouraging that she seems to be happy with other children. Normal mingling with playmates at wholesome fun could hardly be equaled as a corrective measure.

Sending her my special bulletin, "Fear," I also suggested she try to see that this child has ample sleep and rest, be kept from exposure to the fearful and exciting in stories, radio programs and in movies; that moreover, she help this child to be self-reliant, looking after herself, also helping about the house.

Know Your State

Pennsylvania's national dominance in more than 50 types of production and the key position it has occupied in the development of American industry has been accompanied by an equally high contribution to the Fine Arts.

Most of the great early painters, sculptors and architects of the United States were Pennsylvanians. The most famous of all, in Colonial and Revolutionary days, was the romantic historical painter, Benjamin West. Born near Philadelphia, he became the greatest historical painter of his time, refused a British Knighthood and succeeded Joshua Reynolds as President of the Royal Academy of Great Britain.

Charles Wilson Peale and his three talented sons carried on the tradition of Benjamin West, and under their leadership Philadelphia became the center of American art in the early days of the Republic. During this same period a few gifted laymen of educated taste designed the public buildings of Philadephia which were to set a new standard in American architecture.

Christ Church in Phiadelphia was planned by a physician, Dr. John Kearsley. It is one of the most distinguished buildings of Colonial times. Its tower has been widely copied in public buildings in this country and Canada.

Independence Hall, designed by Andrew Hamilton, has become the most familiar of all early American buildings, and remains a tribute to the high standard of taste of Pennsylvania citizens of more than 200 years ago.

Many fine examples of early domestic architecture are to be found at various points across the whole width of the State, including the Harris Mansion erected in 1766, the home of William Maclay built in 1791, both in the City of Harrisburg, the home of John Bartram, the great pioneer naturalist, built with his own hands, the Powel House, built in 1766, and the fine colonial mansion of William Hamilton in Woodlands Cemetery, all three in Philadelphia, and the pleasant old country residence of Albert Gallatin at Friendship Hill in Fayette County. Of particular interest are also the many characteristic buildings erected by the Pennsylvania Germans, including the Cloisters at Ephrata, the Moravian buildings at Bethlehem, the Augustus Lutheran Church at Trappe and the settlement of the Harmony Society at Ambridge.

NEW LORD RECORD

Joe Lord, Villanova ocurt captain and top scorer in the Philadelphia district, set some sort of a record when he tallied his team's first 19 points in five minutes against King Point. His 45-point game total established a new district mark.

Clara Murphy Dies At 60; Was Cited by Pius XI

Solemn Mass Sung For Merion Woman Saturday Morning

Solemn Requiem Mass for Mrs. Clara M. Murphy, a resident of Merion for more than 25 years, was celebrated Saturday morning at Our Lady of Lourdes Church, 63rd St. and Woodbine Ave., Overbrook.

Mrs. Murphy, who lived at Mallwyd and Hazelhurst Rds., died last Tuesday at the age of 60 in Temple University Hospital after an illness of several years.

She was the widow of the late Daniel J. Murphy, philanthropist and president of Murphy and Cook Company, Philadelphia, stevedoring contractors.

Honored By Church

Mrs. Murphy, a native of Philadelphia, was active in church work and was twice honored by the late Pope Pius XI. In 1924, when her husband was elevated from Papal Chamberlain to the rank of Grand Cross Knight in the Order of St. Gregory, she was decorated with a medal in recognition of her services to the church.

She was similarly honored in 1930 when her husband was named a Marquis in the Catholic Church.

Mrs. Murphy, who was blind during her last years, aided in the support of St. Mary's Home for the Blind in Lansdale, and contributed generously in her donations to local charities and volunteer fire companies. She was a member of the Merion Civic Association and the Merion Tribute House, which adjoins the Murphy residence.

Survived By a Son

She is survived by a son, Daniel J. Murphy, Jr.; a step-daughter, Mrs. Rosalind Brenna, of Philadelphia; two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Sheurer, of Mayfair, and Mrs. Marie Edmonds, of Philadelphia; a granddaughter, Mary Lorraine Murphy, and a grandson, Arthur A. Brennan, Jr.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Yeadon.

Bryn Mawr, has moved into a new church parsonage at 7 Elliott Ave. The property is known as "Shumway House" after Dr. Walter B. Shumway, dean of Temple's Theological Seminary, who lived there for a number of years.

The former parsonage at 740 Lancaster Ave. is being turned in to an additional church house.

* * *

Dorothy and Hugh Hutton, of 42 Rosedale Rd., Overbrook-Hills-in-Merion, are having their first local joint exhibition of paintings, etchings and cartoons at the Bryn Mawr Art Center this month.

Hugh, the cartoonist for the Philadelphia Inquirer, and his wife, Dorothy, have already had a previous joint show at the Art Alliance last year.

Not only are they both artists, but their daughter, Elizabeth, is studying at the University of Pennsylvania's School of Fine Arts.

The Huttons have a son, Bob, a student at the Bala-Cynwyd Junior High.

* * *

Narberth Presbyterian Church's new minister, Robert J. Lamont, presently of Colwyn, will be moving to 509 Merwyn Rd., Merion, in March. That is the church parsonage . . . the day after moving day for the Lamont's will be his installation—March 25.

Incidentally, he is married to his childhood sweetheart, the former Edna K. Weisner, with whom he attended Olney High School.

Owen Roberts Lauds Work Of Red Cross

1947 Charity Drive To Open Officially Sunday, March 2

"The American Red Cross is an agency of world friendship, and in the era of the atomic bomb will exhibit the determination of the American people to keep the peace by providing money and sustenance to the world's needy," former Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts stated at a pre-campaign luncheon sponsored by Main Line Branch No. 1 last Thursday afternoon.

"I want to see Red Cross aid sent to Tokyo, should there be another earthquake, and food sent to starving Europeans. We must undertake to help individuals of all nations, despite the fact that we have been at war with them. That is the only way to insure an enduring peace," he said.

The 1947 Red Cross fund drive will officially open Sunday, March 2, which has been designated "Red Cross Sunday." The quota for Main Line Branch No. 1 has been set at $180,000. It will be obtained wholly through personal solicitation.

Mrs. Siter Owen, of Cherry Lane, Wynnewood, presided at the meeting which was held at Merion Cricket club. She is fund chairman for the Main Line branch.

Other speakers were Brigadier General Brenton G. Wallace, of Rosemont, chairman of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter's fund drive, and William H. DuBarry, chairman of the branches of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter.

Special guests included Main Line Branch Chairman C. E. Goodman, Mrs. E. Pritchard Kenworthy, Miss Alice Scott, Mrs. Greville Haslam, Mrs. E. Chapman Smith, Mrs. Charles S. Starr and Canon Ernest C. Earp, of the Bryn Mawr Church of the Redeemer, all active participants in the local chapter.

Merion Park Resident Named Medical Director

Dr. Denial M. Shewbrooks, of 225 Meetinghouse lane, Merion Park, has been elected medical director of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company. He was formerly associate medical director.

A graduate of the John Hopkins Medical School in 1915, Dr. Shewbrooks joined the Serbian Red Cross and served abroad fighting a typhus epidemic. During World War I he served as a major in the medical reserve corps.

Miss McGurk Dies

Solemn Requiem Mass for Miss Rene F. McGurk, of 32 Chestnut Ave., Bala, sister of Mary McGurk and Florence Enders, was celebrated Tuesday morning at the Church of St. Matthias.

Rep. McConnell To Address Library Rally

Solicitors Are Named In Penn Wynne Drive To Raise $50,000

Congressman Samuel K. McConnell, Jr., will be the principal speaker at the Penn Wynne Library Association's Friday night rally marking the opening of a drive for $50,00.

The money will be used to erect a community library building on a lot on Overbrook Parkway, between Beverly and Rock Glen Rds., Penn Wynne.

Other Speakers

Doctor Bolton

money to live and study in a variety of ways. He tended a herd of cows one year; he was also a carpenter and a paperhanger—there are few jobs he didn't do.

After his graduation from Michigan he was awarded a fellowship to Clark University, Worcester, Mass. There he took his Ph.D. in Psychology and shortly after took a teaching job at the University of Washington in Seattle. In 1895, he traveled to Heidelberg to study at the German Hospital for the Insane under its director, Emil Kraepelin.

By that time he had already written several papers on psychology which had revolutionized teaching methods. One of them, "The Growth of Memory in School Children," published in 1891, prived that the memory of school children grows with age and that each child's memory rate varies.

Another, "The Study of Rhythm as a Phenomenon of Life," published in 1893, was the first study of music as a science ever undertaken.

One of his most interesting papers, in neurology, had a great effect on Helen Keller's remarkable adjustment. The outstanding students at a Massachusetts hospital were assigned to the study of a part of the brain of Laura Bridgman, a blind, deaf mute, whose training was later followed by Miss Keller.

Dr. Bolton discovered that when an individual's sense organs don't function properly, the nerves in the brain which control these organs are not normal either. Those of the eye, in Miss Bridgman's case, were 40 percent under normal, and those of the ear were 30 per cent under normal. Miss Keller's teachers greatly benefitted from those studies.

When Dr. Bolton went to Germany, his reputation was already established, and his study there under Dr. Kraepelin, the founder of modern psychiatry, resulted in another paper on aftigue and muscle power. Of that publication, Dr. David Major, Professor of Philosophy at the University of Indiana, said, "We'll talk no more about fatigue until someone else does further work on it."

International Renown

In 1902 a committee composed of 10 Americans and Englishmen was set up to evaluate the work of psychologists. They chose 50 men each year from all over the world as having done the most to forward the work of psychology. Dr. Bolton has been one of those 50 each year since 1902.

As he looks back on many fruitful and productive years ,he counts among his students many who have gone far, including D. E. Douty, president of the U. S. Tetsing Company, who commands the world's silk trade, and who acted as a special advisor to General MacArthur last year in Japan.

Clarence Streit, author of "Union Now"; Agnes Smedley, American newspaperwoman and authority on China; Harry Hollingworth, recently retired Professor of Psychology at Columbia University, and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, one-time Assistant Secretary of the Interior under Coolidge and foremost woman lawyer in the country, are some of the others.

NARBERTH SCHOOL NOTES

The girls of the 4-1 Class, under the supervision of Mrs. N. Shields, have been doing the following things during their craft periods: painting waste paper baskets, weaving pot holders from jersey hoops, painting hot pads for dishes, making belts from two layers of film with felt flowers between them. They have also been doing embroidery work and have painted tin cans to be used for flower pots.

Mrs. N. Hunsicker's girls of the 4-2 Class have been working on raffia table mats, paper weights, film belts. They have painted buckles and tiles with geometric designs. They have also carved book ends. The paper weights and bookends were given to the parents for Christmas presents.

Miss K Dale has been helping the 5-1 girls make these: picture frames from twisted crepe paper, vases, felt dangles for use as pins, belts cut into the shape of leaves, Christmas cards, head bands, needle cases, samplers, napkin rings, tea towels. They have crocheted belts and purses. The girls have also dressed dolls in Colonial costumes.

Under Miss White's supervision the 5-2 girls have made ceramic trays ,bowls, pins and ash trays. The have also made Aunt Jemima dolls for doorstops.

Mrs. Elaine Green has opened a dress shop at 125 N. Narberth Ave., Narberth. She formerly operated a gown shop at 27 S. 16th St., Philadelphia, for 20 years.

Mrs. Green, a resident of Wynnefield, will feature dresses, hats, suits by name designers.

Tilting tournaments, a picturesque custom dating back to colonial times, are still held in South Carolina.

Scouts to Make Pilgrimage To Valley Forge Saturday

Boy Scouts of the Main Line District will join a total of nearly 5000 from Delaware and Montgomery counties in an annual pilgrimage Saturday to Valley Forge.

The mass assemblage at the shrine is a yearly event of the Valley Forge Council, comprising the two-county area. Held annually on the Saturday nearest Washington's birthday, the pilgrimage is a time for rededication of the Scouts to the ideals of that great leader and his achievements at Valley Forge.

Assemble at Quarry Rd.

The program will start at 9:30 A. M., with assemblage of troops from the 10 council districts at the foot of Quarry rd., in the park. With colorful banners, the uniformed Scouts will march in grand parade up the historic hills.

Passing in review, the marching units will preceed to Waterman's Monument, where the day's ceremonies will be held. Following flag-raising ceremonies, the Scouts will be welcomed by Rev. John Robbins Hart, rector of the Washington Memorial Chapel.

The program will include introduction of the Council's Chief Executive, Arnold C. Sorenson, and a special Valley Forge investiture conducted by Rush T. Haines, Council Commissioner.

A special highlight this season will be four tableaux depicting great moments of the Revolution, including scenes from the encampment at Valley Forge. A picked group of Senior Scouts later will hold ceremonies at the grave of the Rev. Dr. W. Herbert Burk, founder and first rector of the Washington Memorial Chapel.

The program includes awarding of pilgrimage ribbons to the participating troops and Valley Forge pins to the individual Scouts.

Senior Boy Scouts of the Main Line District will attend the third annual George Washington Ball of the Valley Forge Council Friday evening at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

A thousand persons are expected to attend the acair, which has for its theme this season "Air Scouting." Among the colorful decorations wil be some furnished by the Naval Air Base at Willow Grove.

SPORTS SCENE

The outstanding play of an unheralded freshman forward has been a key factor in the recent success of the Villanova College basketball team, Coach Al Severance believes.

The youngster who is credited with playing such a vital role is Tom Sabol, a 19-year-old Navy veteran from Philadelphia. Sabol was one of the few athletes to win Quaker City scholastic honors in football and basketball.

Tom did not have an opportunity to play basketball while in the Navy. He spent eight months at sea with the Fleet Post Office.

It was not until early in January that Severance named him to a starting assignment. He turned in good work against Kings Point and clinched the post the following night when he sparked the team to a win over Manhattan.

Although not a high scorer, Sabol is consistent in the point department. He has contributed at least six points in every game since becoming a regular. His specialty is backboard recovery play.

Against high-ranking Seton Hall, Tom grabbed 11 rebounds in the first quarter, including six straight. Sabol is six feet, two inches tall and weighs 175 pounds.

Severance feels Sabol will rank as one of the best backboard recovery artists in Eastern collegiate circles when he gains more experience. Severance, incidentally, believes the top spot in that department now belongs to Norm Butz, St. Joseph's College center.

Jordan Olivar, Villanova footcoach, could use Sabol's services as an end on the grid squad next season. However, Tom does not want to risk injury to an old knee ailment suffered playing football.

Cadet Wrestlers In Lehigh Meet

Valley Forge Military Academy's once-beaten wrestling team will compete in the annual Eastern Preparatory Schools championship tournament at Lehigh University March 1, it was anounced yesterday.

The Trojan team, which has won 13 of 14 matches over the past three seasons, captured the Swarthmore College Interscholastics last season. Copping an unbeaten season, Major Roy Phillips' matmen won seven first places and claimed three seconds.

HORNETS BEATEN

Paced by forward Fuzz Fannaugh with half a dozen field goals for 12 points, Swarthmore College turned bock Haverford College basketball team on the former's court 59 to 33 last Saturday night. This was the fifth victory to one defeat for the Garnet and boosted it into first place in the Southern Division of the Middle Atlantic conference.

VERSATILE 'CATS

No less than four members of Villanova's basketball team will be candidates for the Wildcats' baseball squad. They include Bob McDonnell, Fred Price, Joe Lord and Joe Brehmer.

It's an Old Squash Story: Mrs. Homer Captures Title

Mrs. Charles Homer, Jr., of Merion, captured the women's national singles squash champinship for the fourth time Saturday by scoring a convincing conquest on the Haverford courts.

Mrs. Homer, who has won more squash titles than any woman in the world, defeated Cecil (Babe) Bowes, the duration champion, 15-11, 15-9, 14-18, 15-9. Babe Bowes represented the Cynwyd Club.

Mrs. Homer's stunning victory, achieved in 34 minutes, enabled her to take her 29th title. She is the only woman ever to win the U. S. title four times. Miss Bowes has worn the crown three times.

In the Philadelphia district championship final at Cynwd two weeks ago, Miss Bowes defeated Mrs. Homer in five games, so Saturday's conquest was doubly sweet. Mrs. Homer last won the national title in 1939, after taking it in 1936 and '37.

Besides four U. S. diadems, she has won the Pennsylvania State five times, the Philadelphia district, four, New York League, four, New York, two, Atlantic Coast five, New Jersey, one, and national doubles and Pennsylvania State doubles each twice.

SQUASH UPSET

A surprise was scored in the Pennsylvania State Class B squash racquets doubles championship Sunday at Philadelphia Cricket Club when Ed Maguire and S. C. Stillwell, of Cynwyd, defeated Peter Day and Wister Kesser, Germantown Cricket 15-4, 15-13, 15-7, to reach the quarter-final round.

Friends Rout Haverford Sch.

Haverford School fell a 50-28 victim to Friends Central in their academic League basketball game on Friday. It was the tenth straight victory for the Friends' five.

Bob McDermott paced Friends Central with 13 points. Joe Diamond accounted for Haverford's only score in the first quarter on a field goal. Friend's Central's unbeaten league leaders held a 23-8 halftime advantage.

Walsh Will Start For Rocket Sextet

Bill Walsh, recently obtained from a Canadian amateur league, will start at defense for the Philadelphia Rockets Saturday night when they oppose Providence Reds in an American Hockey League game at the Arena.

The colorful Walsh made his debut in spectacular fashion last Saturday when he scored an unassisted goal against Hershey's league leaders. Rough, tough and terrific, he also made three trips to the penalty box. Phil Hergesheimer, Rockets' coach, considers him one of his most promising prospects.

Warriors Shift Schedule Dates

Changes effecting four home dates and one away engagement of the Philadelphia Warriors have been made in the schedule of the Basketball Association of America.

The St. Louis Bombers will play the Warriors at the Arena on Wednesday, February 26. The Boston Celtics, originally slated for the February 26 date, will visit the Arena for the last time on March 13.

Guida Captures '500' In New York Track Carnival

George Guida, Villanova track stor, sped to victory in the New York A. C. track meet at Madison Squore Garden Saturday, capturing the 500-yard run against a fast field.

Guida, 1943 National junior 200-meter champion, rallied to triumph. Off third, he faded back to fifth and last as Johnny Quigley and Arthur Bigley blazed ahead. On the backstretch of the final trip around, Guida made his bid. He was timed in 58.7 seconds, wining by eight yards.

One other Vilanovan, George Coleman, came through with colors flying. One of four to clear 13 feet, Coleman claimed a tie with Arthur Sherman, Rhode Island, in the pole vault.

Turf Conference Held At Llanerch C. C.

Growing grass for home lawns, athletic fields, parks, cemeteries and golf courses was discussed at the Turf Conference Wednesday evening at Llanerch Country Club.

Guest speakers included Dr. Fred V. Grau, director of the Greens Section, U. S. Golf Association, and A. E. Cooper, Extension Agronomist of the Pennsylvania State College.

The program was arranged by Robert F. Pollock, of Manoa; Fileno A. Alleva, of Bryn Mawr; J. C. Kenealy, of Ardmore; Alex MacLeod, of Bryn Mawr, and Fred Moore, of Haverford.

Holbrook, Evans In Arena Windup

Vic Holbrook, Hollywood, will meet Don Evans, of Buffalo, in the windup of Friday's wrestling show by promoters Eddie Gottlieb and Jules Aronson at the Arena.

Tony Martinelli, Boston, will take on Rudy Dusek in the 30-minute semi-windup engagement.

VFMA Matmen Seek 7th Win

Two Valley Forge Military Academy wrestlers, Mike Filipos and Edwin Robert Closs, will attempt to extend their undefeated string when the Trojan matmen meet Wyoming Seminary Saturday afternoon ot Wayne.

Filipos and Closs, co-captains of the Valley Forge team, are undefeated in six bouts this year and won every match last season. Filipos, who lives in Bethlehem, weighs 125. Closs competes at 138 punds.

Valley Forge rifle, swimming and basketball teams also will be in action this week. The Cadet courtmen will play host to Hun School Wednesday afternoon and will meet Hun away Saturday. Captain William Hough's riflemen will meet University of Pennsylvania away Saturday and the swimming team will be at Haverford School Wednesdoy and at Girard Saturday.

SABOL STANDOUT

Tom Sabol, Villanova freshman basketball forword, was one of the few schoolboy athletes to win All-Philadelphia honors in football and basketball. He plans to cencentrate on basketball.

ABINGTON INVADES L. MERION

Haverford to Play At Upper Darby in Final League Game

Lower Merion High will conclude its 1946-47 basketball season next Tuesday evening, encountering Allentown Catholic in Downs Gymnasium, Ardmore. Ollie Robinson's Aces will write finis to the Suburban Section One campaign this Friday, playing host to Abington High.

Meanwhile, Haverford High's green, graduation-riddled courtmen will meet Upper Darby Friday night in the Royals' gymnasium in their final league game. The Fords then will compete in the annual Delaware County championship tournament sponsored by the Chester Kiwanis Club, February 27 through March 8.

To all appearances, Lower Merion's league campaign ended last Friday night, when Upper Darby erased the Ardmore Aces' last mathematical chance for the title. Upper Darby won, 32-31.

Little less than 20 seconds remained when Jack Brooks, Upper Darby guard, garnered the game's deciding field goal. Lower Merion, trailing by three points at halftime, rallied in the concluding minutes to take at 31-30 lead, only to lose out on Brook's belated basket.

Leading Lower Merion was Tom Davis, Len Shepherd and Chuck Borst. Borst banked 13 points, David had 10 and Shephard scored seven.

Haverford High proved the stepping stone as Norristown's high-flying Eagles annexed the Suburban Section One title Friday. Routing the Fords in Norristown's North End gymnasium, the Eagles registered a 78-20 triumph. It was Norristown's first basketball title in 19 years.

Haverford never was in the ball game as the Eagles, who had previously averaged 50 points per try, zoomed to an 18-3 lead in the first period and boosted it to 32-9 by halftime.

Carmen Schiavo, Norristown ace, erased his own school scoring record by scoring 34 points.

Sportsmen's Show To Open Feb. 28

The Philadelphia Sportsmen's Show will offer a brilliant pageant of the outdoors when it comes to Convention Hall beginning Feb. 28 and continuing through March 8.

Lovers of the outdoors will find much to interest them—displays of fishing tackle, hunting equipment, sportswear, camera equipment, auto trailers, camping gear, sportsmen's planes, vacation and resort facilities.

There will also be wild life and fish exhibits, as well as displays of recreational areas of many states, including New York, Missouri, Virginia and Pennsylvania. Seats for 6,300 persons and space for 10,000 spectators will be available for the mammoth show.

Lord Cracks Court Record

Joe Lord, Villanova College captain, zoomed to another scoring record Saturday as the Wildcats conquered Rutgers, tallying 15 points to boost his season total to 311.

In all, the ex-Army bombardier has hung up 125 field goals and 61 fouls to lead Philadelphia district rivals in all departments. Lord's 15 points Saturday enabled him to top his own Villanova record, 303, compiled in 25 games last year.

The Villanova veteran, still maintaining a breathtaking clip, has scored an average of 18.3 points per game. In overall scoring, La Salle's Bobby Walters, who won the district title with 367 last year, is a poor second with 246. Hal Kollar, Drexel Tech, has 201 for third place.

Narberth Nips Norristown To Retain Lead

By HARRY ELLSWORTH

Narberth maintained its half game lead over Coatesville as both teams won their Main Line league games on Monday. Lower Merion's Veterans dropped out of a second place tie with Coatesville, falling to within half a game of fourth place Brookline.

Narberth, after losing two straight close ball games, snatched a 45-43 verdict out of the fire against Norristown. Sam (Bunny) Russell, blonde Narberth center, potted a eld goal with 10 seconds to go, breaking a 43-all tie and giving Torchiana's men the win. Tom Davidson tallied 22 points for the winners.

Coatesville walloped the Lower Merion Veterans, 62-49, at Coatesville to take over second place by one full game. The Vets, showing the results of a two week layoff caused by two consecutive forfeited games, were never a serious threat to the Steelers.

Brookline continued its drive for a playoff berth, beating Wayne, 47-33, for the Brooks' sixth straight victory. Bill Poletti, who sparked the Goodmen in their current drive, again topped the scorers with 15 points, two more than teammate Charlie Gunther, who notched 11.

In Monday's other contest, Clifton Heights, with Art Stotter scoring 22 points, downed Chester, 75-73, at Clifton Heights.

Brookline, shooting for third place, meets Clifton Heights twice this week, both games being scheduled for the Clifton floor. Thursday night, the Brooks meet John Wise's boys with a return match slated for Monday night.

Other Monday night games find Norristown at Coatesville and Narberth, after a rocky two weeks, at Wayne.

Most important contest of the week will be played at Scott High in Coatesville where Narberth meets the Steelers in the series finale. Coatesville holds a 2-1 edge over the league leaders. Included in the Steelers' wins is a tight 65-64 overtime victory at Coatesville. This contest will probably decide the ultimate first place occupant in the tight Main Line League race.

Also on Monday night, Chester visits Lower Merion High to play the Veterans and Brookline travels to Norristown, seeking their third win in four starts against the Fairmount five.

Although the first game of the doubleheader between the Vets and Clifton Heights was forfeited because Clifton was unable to place a suitable team on the floor, fans at Lower Merion High last week got their money's worth as Brookline nosed out Narberth in a 41-38 thriller.

Charlie Gunther's two field goals in the last 20 seconds gave the Brooks their second consecutive win over Narberth.

* * *

Tom Davidson holds a wide lead in the individual scoring race, having scored 382 points in 24 games for an average of 16 points per game. Jim Coughlin, of Norristown, Bud Barrett, Chester, and Bobby Keehn, of Coatesville, are Davidson's nearest competitors.

* * *

Coatesville holds a slim lead over Wayne in Section One of the Main Line "B" League, while Phoenixville and West Manayunk are tied for first spot in Section Two, with Ardmore K. C. a game behind in second place.

* * *

Havertown set a "B" league record last week when the Haverford Township crew poured 101 points through the nets in overwhelming Norristown, 101-54. The win marked Havertown's eighth in 11 starts.

Romance Begun Abroad Culminates in Wedding

A romance that began in England two years ago culminated in a wedding last week at St. Margaret's Church in Narberth when Patricia Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Davies of Torquay, Devon, England, became the bride of John Dorenzo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Dorenzo of Narberth.

Dorenzo was serving with a landing craft unit when he first met his bride-to-be. They carried on a correspondence during the next two years while Dorenzo took part in invasions in both the European and Pacific theaters of war.

Months ago Dorenzo had plans underway to bring Miss Davies to the U.S. but it wasn't until November that he was able to secure passage for her on the Queen Elizabeth which arrived in New York the day before Thanksgiving. Dorenzo was on hand to meet her and immediately presented her with a diamond engagement ring.

The wedding took place at 3 P. M. with the Rev. James O'Connor officiating. Even though no members of her family could be present, the bride was well taken care of by her new relatives. The bridegroom's father gave her in marriage and she was attended by his sister as maid of honor.

She wore a white marquisette gown fashioned with a close fitting bodice, heart shaped neckline edged with a ruffle, long sleeves edged with lace and a full skirt that flared to a long train. Her fingertip veil was fastened with a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and forget-me-nots.

As maid of honor, Lillian Dorenzo was attired in a yellow satin brocade gown made with a full skirt and fitted bodice with an off-the-shoulder neckline filled in with net. The yellow roses of her headdress were repeated in her shower bouquet.

Following the ceremony, the bridegroom's family held a reception at their 307 Hampden Ave. home. The couple left for a wedding trip to New York. They plan to make their home in Narberth. The bridegroom who graduated from Lower Merion High School before entering the service is now attending Temple University.

Mount Holyoke Club Honors Prospective Students at Tea

Harriet Newhall, director of admissions at Mount Holyoke College, was guest of honor at a tea given Saturday by the Mount Holyoke Club of Philadelphia for prospective students.

Mrs. Carl R. Freeheafer of Bryn Mawr and Mrs. David E. Watson of Mt. Airy were chairmen of the committee. Other Main Liners who assisted on the committee were Mrs. J. Gibson McIlvaine Bunting of Wynnewood, Mary Stewart of Bryn Mawr, Mrs. John K. Knorr 3d of Wayne and Mrs. James Selby of Rosemont.

Club to Sponsor Saturday Dance

Affair Will Be Part of Valley Forge Hospital's Fifth Anniversary Celebration

The Wayne Rotary Club will sponsor a dance Saturday night in the Red Cross recreation hall of the Valley Forge General Hospital, as part of the celebration of the hospital's fifth anniversary.

The Rotary Club, which is a contributing member of the Wayne Camp and Hospital committee, will provide entertainment including orchestra music for dancing and refreshments.

Other plans for entertainment at the hospital during February include the four parties which are a regular part of the work of the committee.

It was also announced by Mrs. J. Montgomery Forster at a meeting held recently at her home that the Valley Forge Military Academy band will give a concert in the near future for the men in the hospital.

Mrs. Joel B. Davis Jr., co-chairman with Mrs. Forster, reported increasing activity on the part of the group in the way of gifts and entertainment for the hospital.

The Wayne Footlighters' recent performance of The Male Animal at the hospital followed requests of many of the patients who were guests at the benefit performance of the play, given by the Footlighters at the Saturday Club. Receipts from this performance netted sufficient funds for several hospital entertainments.

The need for Junior hostesses to go from Wayne to these parties is still urgent. Ages for these hostesses range from 18 years to 30 years.

Playing cards and hillbilly phonograph records are needed in great numbers at the hospital at present. Help in refurnishing of the Red Cross recreational lounge at the hospital is being planned, including new curtains, fresh cushion covers and a new floor covering.

2 Named Heads Of College Drive

Main Line Alumni Chosen to Lead Philadelphia Area Campaign for Swarthmore Campaign

Two Main Line alumni of Swarthmore College, Richard W. Slocum of Bryn Mawr and Major Shaler Stidham of Merion, are leading their alma mater's $5,000,000 campaign in this area, it was announced Sunday.

Slocum, former chairman of the Eastern Pennsylvania Region alumni association, has been appointed head of the special gifts committee while Stidham is chief of the Main Line area funds taking committee.

Raymond Fosdick, president and trustee of the Rockefeller Foundation, declared Sunday night at a meeting of the Swarthmore Alumni Club that the major burden of keeping private colleges alive in the future rests with the alumni and friends of each institution. It was because, he said, the changed tax structure of the last 30 years has made impossible the massing of large fortunes which previously supported colleges.

Private small colleges are essential to this country and must not fail, Fosdick stated, because from schools like Swarthmore must come the moral leadership which will keep democracy a "vigorous and growing faith."

Of the $1,000,000 quota set for June, thus far $317,000 has been contributed. Montgomery County accounted for $20,480 of the latter figure.

Tax Queries Answered At Pennsylvania Co.

Puzzled Main Liners who need help in completing their 1947 income tax returns may place their queries before a Deputy Collector of the Bureau of Internal Revenue who will be stationed at the Pennsylvania Company in Ardmore for four days beginning today.

W. J. Lloyd, assistant vice-president of the Ardmore bank on Lancaster Ave. and Station Rd., said that the deputy collector will be there tomorrow as well as Monday and Tuesday from 9:00 A. M. to 3:00 P. M.

Narberth Junior Club Preparing For Fashion Show

Chill winds and even ice and snow may still be order of the day, but not for long, as nearly everyone in Narberth knows with preparations underway for the annual Spring fashion show and bridge party of the Junior Women's Community Club.

Set for March 6, the affair will have numerous gay events to highlight the evening. There will be the newest in Spring and Summer fashions modelled by club members as well as professionals with interest centering on the flowing lines and generous use of materials introduced since the lifting of manufacturers' restrictions.

A hat in the higher priced brackets donated by a local shop will be awarded to a lucky ticket holder as well as a gown in newest mode to another guest equally lucky. Door and table prizes also are being lined up.

Named to chairman the affair is Mrs. A. R. Smith Jr. who will be assisted by Mrs. George Stulting, Mrs. Ray Hunter, Mary Phillips, Mrs. E. H. Vick and Mrs. Donald Reed. Proceeds will go to the clubs' welfare fund which is financing a number of worthwhile projects this year and next.

Not forgetting their special project interest, members staged a Valentine dance for Narberth's young set Friday night. Mrs. Larry H. Grey was in charge with chaperones including L. H. Grey, Mr. and Mrs. George Burns, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Price and William Harris. Gwen Hunsicker was winner of the door prize for girls and George Morrill for the boys. Dancing was continuous from 8 to 10 P. M. and refreshments were served.

The following night at the clubrooms at the community building, more than 100 members and guests attended a hot dish supper and dance. The white and red of Valentines decorated the rooms and gave colorful accent to supper tables. Lending interest to each table arrangement were unusual salt and pepper shakers loaned by Mrs. Titus W. Strawhecker who collects them as a hobby. Mrs. William Borkey and Mrs. George Stulting were in charge of the affair.

Narberth Pupils Report Activity In Handicrafts

The girls of the 4-1 class of Narberth Public School, under supervision of Mrs. N. Shields have been doing the following things during their craft periods: painting waste paper baskets, weaving potholders from jersey loops, painting hot pads for dishes, making belts from two layers of film with felt flowers in between them. They have also been doing embroidery work and have painted tin cans to be used as flower pots.

Mrs. M. Hunsicker's girls of the 4-2 class have been working on raffia table mats, paper weights and film belts. They have painted buckles and tiles with geometric designs. They also carved book ends. The paper weights and book ends were given to the parents for Christmas presents.

Miss K. Dale has been helping the 5-1 girls make picture frames from twisted crepe paper, vases, felt dangles for use as pins, belts cut into the shape of leaves, Christmas cards, head bands, needle cases, samplers napkin rings and tea towels. They have crocheted belts and purses. The girls have also dressed dolls in colonial costumes.

Under Miss White's supervision, the 5-2 girls have made ceramic trays, bowls, pins and ash trays. They have also made Aunt Jemima dolls for doorstops.

Bank Officials Hold Elections

J. Harold Hallman Renamed President of Wayne Title and Trust Company

An annual meeting of the stockholders of the Wayne Title and Trust Company was held recently at which Charles R. Meyers was named Judge of Election and John M. Lengel and Robert E. Porter, tellers.

Directors re-elected to serve for three years were Frederick P. Ristine, Harry C. Hadley, Harold D. Greenwell and Norman A. Wack.

Following election of directors the following officers were re-elected to serve for one year:

J. Harold Hallman, president; H. C. Hadley, vice-president; S. Woodward Cook, vice-president, title and trust officer; Jason L. Fenimore, secretary-treasurer, and Helen F. Minshall, assistant secretary-treasurer.

An increase in deposits of $971,610.53 was announced in the president's report, bringing the total to $6,906,716.10. Savings account deposits were $190,791.92. The war loan account showed a decrease of $778,435.72.

A total of 3425 checking accounts were noted with $4,798,840.11 in deposits, and 3053 savings accounts in the total amount of $2,107,875.99. The 1946 Christmas Club had 1805 members and disbursements were $158,722.25.

Dividends of 50 cents per share were paid during the year on capital stock and the company transferred $60,000 to surplus account.

Other directors include J. Maurice Wynn, R. S. McKinley, Charles S. Walton Jr., Charles H. Wetzel, J. Exton Guckes and William Plummer Jr.

R. S. McKinley acted as chairman of the meeting and Norman A. Wack as secretary.

An Unrealistic Approach

The proposals for legislation that came out of the recent Highway Safety Conference in Norristown dealt with some important factors involved in highway safety, but neglected other factors that are even more important.

Of the four recommendations for legislation that emerged from the Conference, the most valuable was the proposal that stiffer fines and punishments be imposed on traffic violators who attempt to influence authorities so that they can evade penalties for their infractions. Less important but also valuable was the recommendation that greater regulation be established over jaywalking pedestrians.

But the other two general recommendations (that physical highway hazards be eliminated and that drivers be given more safety education), while both are helpful suggestions, continue to reflect the unrealistic attitude that so many people have toward the problem of highway safety.

What makes these recommendations, and the total results of the Conference, unrealistic, is this continued insistence on and faith in a voluntary, educational, propagandistic approach to accident reduction. None of the Norristown recommendations mention the great need, for example, for raising the qualifications for a driver's license to a point where there would be some assurance that the bulk of licensed drivers were reasonably safe and sane individuals. This step, coupled with periodic checks on driving ability and stiffer rules governing the revocation of licenses, is probably the single greatest need on our highways today. Incompetent and irresponsible drivers are the hazard that dwarfs all other hazards.

Another large need that the conference neglected is for more rigid vehicle inspection. Both these major needs, it should be noted, are compulsory steps. And that fact, it seems to us, marks the difference between a realistic and an unrealistic approach to highway safety. It should be clear by now that the greatest, most urgent need is for closer regulation, higher standards, more rigid enforcement.

We can, at the same time, continue to eliminate road hazards, regulate pedestrians and educate drivers. These things all help. But these lesser, voluntary, educational methods—used alone—have failed miserably to curb accidents. It's time we faced that fact—and the fact that our present motor vehicle laws permit too many irresponsible and incompetent drivers and defective cars on the road. And that this is the chief source of our highway accident toll. It is important to make people more competent and more responsible. But it is more important that, while doing this, we keep incompetent and irresponsible people off the highways.

Lilienthal, Eisler and A Danger

The contrast between two Congressional hearings last week, centering around two vastly different men, offered the U.S. people a timely warning of one of the grave dangers lurking in the current "Red scare" that is assuming such large proportions.

One of the men was Gerhart Eisler, an alien Communist leader, who unmistakably poses a real threat to U.S. security, and who in no way merits the protection of U.S. civil liberties. The other was David Lilienthal, a citizen, a Federal administrator of long experience, who did a widely praised job as head of the TVA and has the confidence of the President of the United States to such a degree that he has been named chairman of the super-important Atomic Energy Commission.

The idea of linking these men as part of the same danger, of throwing them both into the Red scare pot, may seem far-fetched. But something very much like that can happen only too easily — not only to Lilienthal, but to many other men — unless we stay clear-headed about this "Communist menace."

Already, during the Senate hearings on his confirmation, an attempt has been made to link Lilienthal to Communism. But the objection is not to this fact alone. No one assuming so important a post should be above the most penetrating probe of his background and loyalties. But it so happens that Lilienthal is also a New Dealer. He served under Roosevelt and the Democrats for many years. And the committee investigating him is Republican-dominated. It is also pretty plain that the real objection to Lilienthal, and the motive operating against him, is his political affiliation, not his ideology.

And therein lies the danger. The Red scare, despite its legitimate basis, can very easily become a form of political oppression, a smear technique directed at any and all opposition. That may or may not be the case in the Lilienthal instance. But it can easily become the case — unless we make some sharp distinctions between rooting out subversives and defeating legitimate political opposition.

Can Democracy Survive Peace?

It has always been a popular axiom that democracy flourishes in times of peace, but is seriously threatened by wartime conditions. Today, however, it is beginning to appear that the opposite might be true—that peace is the real threat. U.S. democracy, in this craven century, has survived two major wars (so far) without losing any of democracy's essential conditions. Even during those wars it preserved government by the people, which is the essential condition of political democracy.

Today, however, two issues that are currently in the news—the national budget and peacetime conscription—raise this question: can this democracy, which withstood the internal and external strains of fighting two wars, preserve itself against the insidious deteriorating effects of a period of peace?

Both these issues, peacetime conscription and the size of the federal budget, are closely related to this question of preservation, for they are aspects of that fundamental self-preservative, national defense. Consequently, it is the decisions about these issues that will provide at least a temporary answer to the fateful question of the effects of peace on the thinking and action of a democratic nation.

In a dictatorship or some other form of autarchy, these decisions are relatively simple. The "leader" make up his mind on the basis of total national necessity. The people, having surrendered responsibility to and placed their confidence in the leader, must and will, in general, acquiesce in whatever decisions are reached.

But in the U.S. today the decisions about these issues involve two factors that are not present in dictator-led nations. One is the factor of mass judgment. The opinions of experts and the acts of elected or apointed public servants are merely suggestions and tentative steps that must always await the final judgment of the people at the polls. And the question that arises out of these facts—and that is being answered from day to day in the facts of our national political life—is this: are the people, in the calm, un-urgent atmosphere of peace, capable of making sound judgments about these important and complex matters?

The second factor peculiar to a democracy is the conflict present in every such decision. If the people do decide that peacetime conscription and a large military force are necessary, they will be imposing these things—and their distasteful consequences—on themselves. They will be sending their sons and neighbors and friends to months of irksome military training. They will be levying high taxes and lowered living standards on their own families and their own communities.

Thus the second big question posed by these issues: even if the people, en masse, are capable of making sound objective judgments about these matters, are they capable of the realism, the character and the vision needed to impose such odious necessities on themselves?

It is no good to point out that the American people did these very things during two World Wars. It is exactly the point, the big difference in the situation, that the U.S. is not at war today. Then, the crying need was superevident. All that was necessary, after Pearl Harbor, for instance, was a mass emergence of the instinct for self-preservation. The imminent danger was only too plain. The question today is whether the people, during a period of peace, with its alluring invitation to self-indulgence and complacency, can recognize the less-evident dangers and take the less-evident action that will preserve in peace what was preserved at such great sacrifice, in war.

This is not a plea, per se, for peacetime conscription or a big military appropriation. This paper has steadily urged both. It still believes that both are necessary. But the point at issue here is the even larger necessity, in our view, for a continuation today, in the relative calm of peace, for that alertness and vigilance, that promptness in decision, and attention to responsibility, that characterized the American people during the war. Whatever the final decisions about conscription, the budget, or other important questions, the important thing is that those decisions be made with as full an appreciation of what it involved as possible. To the question, can democracy defend itself in peace as well as in war, the American people must give a loud yes. And it is now, in this year, that part of that fateful answer will be required.

DRIVE & LIVE

DURING THE STORM

The presence of stormy weather calls for additional care on the part of the driver. National Conservation Bureau issues the following precautions to Pennsylvania drivers:

Keep Your Windshield Clear. Be sure that your car is equipped with with a defroster and see that your windshield wiper is in good condition.

Drive Slowly, for in addition to danger of meeting another vehicle unexpectedly there is the danger of skidding on slippery pavements. Never forget the chains.

Watch out for the pedestrian with the umbrella; he may be carrying it in such a position that he is unable to see.

SUNBEAMS

THE SUNNY POEMS OF Charles Allen Branham

THE JOY OF HELPING

To help someone's a simple thing
For anyone to do,
For helping someone, after all,
Brings happiness for two!

Remember, when you help some soul
Along life's stormy way,
You help yourself as well, because
You brighten up your day!

Be selfish, then — find happiness
In being helpful, kind
To those you meet along the way;
No greater joy you'll find!
No greater satisfaction lies
At anyone's command
Than just the joy of reaching out
A friendly, helping hand!

Music Lover's Corner

By JOSEPH E. BARONE

By JOSEPH E. BARONE

Have you seen the current film, "Humoresque," starring John Garfield and Joan Crawford? If not, by no means miss it, for it is excellent movie fare concocted of a good dramatic story and some first-rate music.

To be sure, the local film critics have a certain amount of justification in claiming that the old Fannie Hurst tale of some two decades back is now a bit threadbare compared to such new sophisticated musical stories as "Deception" and "A Song to Remember." But there is such a wealth of truly fine music offered in "Humoresque" — not to mention several fine dramatic portrayals — that it more than makes up for this deficiency.

To begin with, the real star of the whole picture is young 23-year-old Isaac Stern, the brilliant American violinist who really performs the violin music that is heard. Stern gives a variety of performances, ranging from "Ziegeunerweisen" and "Symphonie Espagnol" to violin transcriptions of "Carmen" and "Tristan and Isolde" which are truly magnificent in every way.

As the young violin prodigy of the slums who fights his way to the top of the heap — thanks to the munificent assistance of an attractive lady bountiful—John Garfield turns in an excellent characterization. He is properly sullen, disillusioned and boorish, and if anything, slightly underplays his role rather than succumbing to the temptation to make it a "Hearts-and-Flowers" emotional orgy.

Joan Crawford follows up the success she enjoyed in "Mildred Pierce" by offering a convincing piece of acting as the bored socialite who sponsors the promising young violinist, Paul Boray. As a matter of fact, she injects such realism into her role, that more than one talent-collecting dowager should squirm uncomfortably in seeing the picture.

As to Oscar Levant, much has already been written about the way he practically steals the picture simply by acting his own natural self. Flitting in and out of scenes, speaking lines he probably wrote himself, he is first-rate as the parasitic pianist resigned to his fate of having to grovel for a living.

All in all, while it may not win an Academy Award or earn Oscars for any of its featured players, "Humoresque" is such a true-to-life and entertaining picture that it will probably prove to be one of the best films of the year.

ABOARD A DESTROYER

Herbert Waher, seaman first class, son of Edward Waher of 2201 County Line Rd., Ardmore, was recently assigned to duty aboard the destroyer USS H. J. Ellison. Waher entered the service in March, 1945.

Fund to Aid Former Boro Amputee Started by Newspaper Organization

Robert L. Russell, Victim of Auto Collision, Loses Both Legs

Eastern Delaware county's only civilian — triple amputee — Robert L. Russell of 512 Upland Rd., Manoa, former Narberth resident—is doing nicely in Delaware County hospital, thank you.

But he has a long time in the hospital still and he faces tremendous expense.

Just the same, he and his wife—the former Margaret Eyre, daughter of Albert and Mary Kennedy Eyre of Coulter Ave., Ardmore — have one consolation in the tragedy that struck them three weeks ago.

The Upper Darby News of Upper Darby — a Main Line Times affiliate—has launched a fund, at the suggestion of neighbors, to provide financial assistance to the couple.

By yesterday, the fund had climbed to $500 and every mail, the News reported, was bringing in more contributions as organized groups swung their assistance behind the couple.

Physicians and public officials say the case is one of the most tragic in their memory. As a student years ago, Mr. Russell lost his right arm in an industrial accident. Three weeks ago he was standing at Upland and Eagle Rds., a half block from his home, waiting for a bus on a foggy night.

Two cars collided and came hurtling over the sidewalk, pinning Mr. Russell to the ground. Two days later at Delaware county hospital, surgeons amputated one leg. A week after the accident, the other leg was amputated. No more innocent victim of automobiles, say officials, can be imagined.

Neighbors were more emphatic. "We live in this district because we have good neighbors. This seems just too much for one couple to take."

Why, they asked the Upper Darby newspaper, don't you launch the fund? And so the fund was started with the newspaper serving as a collection agency only. Disbursements will be directed by a group of three trustees: Earl Marsh, assistant secretary of Haverford township; the Rev. Henry Woll of Llanerch, the Russells' pastor; and C. F. Finney, their next door neighbor.

Contributions in any amount may be made direct to the Upper Darby News, McClatchy building, Upper Darby, or to the Main Line Times. Each will be publicly acknowledged by the Upper Darby publication. Checks should be made payable to the News-Good Neighbor Fund.

Jr. Service Board Offers 9 Day Cruise As Prize at Bridge

The opportunity to win a nine-day cruise to Bermuda will be given to those attending a bridge party at the Merion Cricket Club Wednesday, March 12.

Mrs. John L. Mather and Mrs. Arthur Horton are heading the committee in charge of cruise arrangements, which will include passage and hotel reservations for two persons.

Sponsored by the Junior Service Board for the Neighborhood League of Wayne, the party has as its chairman Mrs. Stanley D. Hartshorn.

Featured at the event will be Bonwit Teller's fashion show with models displaying a spring wardrobe suitable to the cruise and holiday mood. Special runway and table arrangements are being planned in order that all may see clearly. Also included in the afternoon's entertainment will be table prizes, door prizes and a food sale.

The proceeds of the party will go to provide funds for the dental clinic and occupational therapy work done by the Junior Service Board.

Main Liners Aid In Arranging for Turf Conference

Four Main Line men took part in arranging a discussion program last evening at a turf conference held at Llanerch Country Club, Havertown.

The Main Liners were J. C. Kenealy of Ardmore, Fileno A. Alleva of Bryn Mawr, Alex MacLeod of Bryn Mawr, and Fred Moore of Haverford.

Growing grass for home lawns, athletic fields, parks, cemeteries and golf courses was discussed. Guest speakers included Dr. Fred V. Grau, director of the greens section, U.S. Golf Association, and A. E. Cooper, extension agronomist of Pennsylvania State College.

There were reports on results secured by using chemicals to control weeds in turf during 1946. Harry Wood of Swarthmore College, who had sprayed the grass on two athletic fields and a portion of the college campus with 2,4-D, reported on how and when to use the new chemical in order to have better grass.

The builders of the new athletic fields at Berwyn and Bryn Athyn reported in detail their operations and results for the benefit of high school authorities who have evidenced interest in obtaining better turf on play fields.

Co-chairmen of the meeting were Thomas McKay, president of the Philadelphia branch, National Association of Gardeners, and Leonard Strong, president of the Philadelphia Association of Golf Course Superintendents.

ENROLLED AS STUDENT

Marian Olivia Sears of 400 Williamson Rd., Ardmore, has enrolled as a student at the Boston University College of Practical Arts and Letters in the evening division.

Narberth Vocalist To Present Recital At Acad. of Music

Kathryn Westman, Narberth lyric soprano, is scheduled to give a recital March 10 in the Philadelphia Academy of Music foyer.

Miss Westman has sung on the radio and with orchestras and in churches in the Philadelphia area. She appeared widely at entertainments for the armed forces during the war and at present still sings in veteran hospitals.

At her recital next month, she will present a program of selections from Handel, Haydn, Schumann, Debussy and others.

41 Cases Chicken Pox Reported Last Week

Forty-one new cases of chicken pox were reported last week in Lower Merion Township by Health Officer Robert J. Thomas. Fifteen of these were in the Penn Valley, Bala-Cynwyd, West Manayunk district.

Also reported were 12 new cases of mumps, with Merion and Penn Wynne bearing the largest number. Other infectious diseases reported were one new case each of scarlet fever, whooping cough and salmonella.

Industries Here Will Need Loans For 1947 Program

Manufacturing and mining industries in the six counties comprising Group 2 of the Pennsylvania Bankers Association — Berks, Bucks, Chester, Delaware, Montgomery and Schuylkill — will spend about two billion dollars in 1947, approximately three times the amount they spent in 1939, Robert W. Wolcott, president of the Lukens Steel Co., last week told the 51st annual meeting of the group held at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel.

Wolcott said that the expenditure of this vast sum will "generate a requirement for loans in excess of those made in 1939." These industrial loans for seasonal inventories, working capital, replacement of worn-out and obsolete equipment, he said, will amount to millions of dollars.

He held that if the smaller or country banks will go out and "sell themselves," they can secure a large portion of these loans, thereby increasing their earnings.

Wolcott asserted that he knew of no business that could sit back and wait for its customers to come to them to do business or until they are in trouble "and expect to carry on a continuing profitable business."

Wolcott said he had heard businessmen "express themselves in a manner which would lead one to believe that borrowing was a sin, or a start of a cancerous growth. If you are honest you will agree that too many businessmen are reticent about going into a bank to borrow or to seek advice on their financial problems." They look upon it, he said, like a trip to the doctor's office.

"In my opinion," he asserted, "this viewpoint is not healthy from your position as a merchant in banking, but it is all too true. The surest, quickest and soundest way to overcome these influences is to go out and sell yourselves and your institutions."

Wolcott urged country banks to form larger pools of local banks in order to be able to fill the credit needs of the business men in their communities.

Haverford Professor Leaves for Finland With Quaker Relief

Dr. Howard M. Teaf Jr., professor of economics at Haverford College, sailed last week for Finland on a six months mission for the American Friends Service Committee.

His work in Finland will be to "give counsel on the possible setting up of craft industry units."

During the past year the American Friends Service Committee in Finland cooperated with the Finnish-American fund raising committees in distributing 150 tons of used and new clothing, 19,000 pairs of shoes and one supplementary meal a day to 25,000 children.

The Quaker work in Finland is part of a program of foreign relief and rehabilitation going on in 11 countries. They are Italy, Germany, Japan, Austria, Poland, India, China, Spain, Finland, Hungary and France.

Albert Spaulding Concert Thrills Capacity Crowd

By K. M. DUNLAP

Albert Spalding received a warm and enthusiastic welcome last week from a capacity audience in the auditorium of Bala-Cynwyd Junior High School when the internationally acclaimed violinist returned to the Philadelphia area after an absence of five years.

Appearing in the second concert of a series sponsored this Winter by the Bala-Cynwyd Concerts Association, Spalding brought to the audience with consummate skill and artistry a message of warmth, of joy, of pulsing life and living, for his choice of program featuring selections from the works of Schubert, Pescetti, Corelli, Lalo, Paganini and Strauss emphasized the beauty, the lightness, the good humor and gayety expressed in music.

And with a lively appreciation of the work at hand and the message of the masters, Spalding presented the program with a skill born of exceptional talent and fostered through years of devoted study. That his art might have suffered through lack of application during the years he devoted to the war effort has been subject of discussion by music lovers. There was no indication of the concert hiatus in last week's performance. The artist's technique was excellent and his readings demonstrated the taste and elegance that have placed him with the top violinists of our time.

Beginning with his own arrangement of Corelli's La Folia, Spalding continued with Allegro by Pescetti and Sonatina in G Minor, Opus 137, No. 3, by Schubert and concluded the first half of the program with Lalo's Spanish Symphony which he cut to four balanced movements. Responding to insistent applause, he offered Claire de Lune as an encore with the appreciative audience providing absolute stillness as a setting for the delicate Debussy melody.

Two old Irish tunes with the lilting charm of their melodies extended and developed by Spalding opened the second part of the program. They were followed by Hark, Hark the Lark, Schubert-Spalding; Jamaican Rumba, Benjamin-Primrose, La Chasse, Paganini-Spalding and Wiener Blut, Strauss-Spalding.

In answer to the thunderous applause and calls to return to the stage, Spalding generously offered four encores including a notable reading of a Hiefetz arrangement of Dinicu's Hora Staccato, popular at the moment with teen-agers who shouted their appreciation for the Spalding interpretation. Conceded one bobby-soxer seated near us, "That's even better than Benny Goodman's staccato." Samuel Sorin, replacing Andre Benoist who worked with Spalding for 30 years, was at the piano throughout the program providing excellent accompaniment.

For us, the Spalding recital evoked childhood memories of early Winter evenings, the warmth of an open fireplace and the delicious odor of corn popping and apples roasting all to the delicate tune of Melody in F or perhaps the Spring Song. And it was Spalding again, chosen among the young and promising musicians to make Edison recordings, who provided the music through our then glamorous Edison record player.

The predictions of older members of the family that, "That young lad will go far," conjured up a picture in our mind of a boy, violin tucked under chin, setting off for strange and far places on a magic carpet. And life has spread a magic carpet for Albert Spalding, a magic carpet that has taken him to many continents and to many peoples. He has appeared with all the major symphony orchestras in this country and abroad and has crossed the Atlantic more than 200 times for recitals in Great Britain, on the Continent and in many distant places of the world.

Spalding's interest in the violin dates to the Christmas of his seventh year when he received a half-sized instrument in answer to a request. He says he had no special inspiration for the request, "No one knows why I asked for it. I don't myself. No one in my family played the violin."

To a usual question Spalding's reply is, "Did I like to practice? Emphatically no! I can distinctly recall shamming the practice of scales while reading a book of adventure secretly propped upon the piano and screened by pages of music. However, I did love the violin and I loved to play. As soon as I found out that one couldn't play without practicing I did some of that too."

That his practicing was well directed is shown by his graduation from Bologna Conservatory at the age of 14, the youngest pupil to be graduated from that celebrated conservatory since Mozart. When Spalding was 16 he appeared on the Paris concert stage as assisting artist to Adelina Patti and in 1908 made his New York debut as soloist with the New York Symphony under Walter Damrosch.

Besides his reputation as violinist, Spalding has won plaudits as composer as well and has to his credit many compositions for the violin, piano, orchestra and chamber music quartets as well as numerous songs, transcriptions and arrangements. He has taken part in many radio programs and was chosen for four consecutive years as radio's favorite violinist.

A veteran of World War I when he served with the Army Air Forces, Spalding volunteered for service again at the outbreak of World War II. Working with the Office of War Information, he went to Italy and, known as Major Sheridan, broadcast in fluent Italian to the peoples of the Underground. In charge of the Italian Combatte program, he arranged for Italian ministers and other leaders to speak for their compatriots behind enemy lines. The effectiveness of his work was cited by 5th and 8th Army commanders and by the 15th Army Headquarters commander for Italy. Added to the list of honors conferred upon him at this time was the U.S. Medal of Freedom.

Next concert of the Bala-Cynwyd series is scheduled for March 28 and will feature the Don Cossack Russian Chorus. Rose Bampton will complete the series with a recital set for May 1.

Why Do We Sell 9x12 Kirman Rugs for $795
When Others Ask $200 to $400 More?

To get business, for one thing; because our store is not magnificent, for another. But also because we believe that a low-price policy is a good antidote to both inflation and depression.

We have fine rugs priced at $25.00 to $2,000 and every one a good value.

Come to Swarthmore, to Paulson's, to see them.

NEW PTC FARES AND TRANSFERS

Now in Effect

The new 8¾¢ token fare and 10¢ cash fare are now in effect on PTC rail lines (street car, subway-elevated and trackless trolley lines) and bus lines established to replace rail lines.

Remember, when you pay an 8¾¢ token fare you can obtain a "Token Fare Transfer" free on request. When you pay a 10¢ cash fare you can obtain a "Cash Fare Transfer" free on request.

These transfers are easy to use and, in many cases, using the "Cash Fare Transfer" saves you money.

The "Token Fare Transfer"

This transfer is issued when you pay an 8¾¢ token fare on rail lines and bus lines established to replace rail lines. With it you can make a single interchange between such lines outside the Central Business District (the area between Callowhill and Pine sts., inclusive, and the two rivers). Examples: Transfer between Route 26 and Broad St. Subway at Broad & Olney; or between Routes 42 and 70 at 52d & Spruce.

The "Cash Fare Transfer"

This transfer is issued when you pay a 10c cash fare on any PTC line. Here's how you can use it:

1. To transfer between rail lines inside the Central Business District, instead of the 3c exchange ticket, use of which is discontinued. This saves you ½c. Example: Transfer between Routes 20 and 36 at 12th or 13th & Market.

2. To transfer between bus lines, and between rail and bus lines, both inside and outside the Central Business District. Examples: Transfer between Routes A and D at Broad & Sansom or Locust sts.; or between Routes 50 and R at Rising Sun ave. & Roosevelt Blvd. On journeys involving such interchanges you save ½c to 3½c.

3. To make certain journeys, within city fare limits, involving 3 or more vehicles. Many of these journeys formerly cost 2 full fares but now cost only 10c. Example: To travel from 5th st. & Cheltenham ave. to 22d st. & Lehigh ave., use "Cash Fare Transfer" from bus O to Broad St. Subway southbound at Logan Station and request a Special Transfer, good on Route 54 westbound on Lehigh ave. This trip now costs 10c, formerly cost 17½c.

{ For more details on the New Fares and Transfers, see Leaflet in the read-as-you-ride boxes in PTC vehicles and subway-elevated stations. }

Three Business Executives Named To Villanova Advisory Council

New Appointees Increase Membership of Group Formed to Hear College Reports to 22

Three business executives have been named to the general advisory council of Villanova College, according to an announcement by the Rev. Francis X. McGuire, president of the college.

They are Cyril J. Burke of Grosse Point, Mich.; Edward P. Hughes of Brookline, Pa., and Frank M. Folsom of Philadelphia. The council was formed several years ago and the new appointees increase the membership to 22. They include business, industrial and professional leaders who through their experience hear college reports and give the college administration the benefit of their advice.

Burke, who attended Villanova Preparatory School and was graduated from the school of engineering at Villanova College in 1917, is the alumni representative on the council, replacing the late Martin J. McLaughlin, former director of public work for the City of Philadelphia.

He is president of the Cyril J. Burke Construction Machinery Company, Detroit. His son, John, received an engineering degree at mid-term graduation this month, and another son, Thomas, is a student in the school of engineering.

Hughes is sales production manager of the National Aerofoam Company. He is a native of Kansas City and attended Kansas State College.

Folsom is executive vice president of the Radio Corporation of America in charge of the RCA Victor Division. He is a native of Sprague, Wash., and received an LL.D. degree at the University of San Francisco.

During the war he served as deputy director of purchases for the Office of Production Management and later was assistant chief in charge of procurement and material, and special assistant to the Under-secretary of the Navy. He is a Knight of the Sovereign Military Order of Malta.

Other council members include Ignatius J. Horstman, Vincent A. Carroll, Dr. Walter F. Dreuding, Aloysius Fitzpatrick, Frank Donohue, William Connor, Benjamin F. James, John F. Macklir, David Smyth, Matthew T. McCloskey, William R. Mooney, W. W. Montgomery, Edgar Scott, Gerald Ronan, William Simpson, J. Stanley Smith, John McShain and C. Howard Wolfe.

Seal Campaign Set for Easter

Graham Patterson, publisher of Farm Journal, has accepted the chairmanship of the annual Easter Seal Campaign. The appointment was announced by Wesley A. Gilman, president of the Metropolitan-Philadelphia Society for Crippled Children who sponsors the annual drive in this area.

The Seal Sale is conducted in cooperation with the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, and will open on March 6th and continue to Easter Sunday, April 6.

In accepting the chairmanship, Mr. Patterson said, "The purchase of Easter Seals means that physically handicapped persons right here in our own community will be helped. The funds received by the Metropolitan-Philadelphia Society for Crippled Children will be used for their extensive program which includes physical therapy treatments in the home, a sheltered workshop, functional training center, vocational training classes, job placement and Camp Daddy Allen, a summer camp in the Pocono Mountains."

Mr. Patterson emphasized that the Metropolitan-Philadelphia Society for Crippled Chaldren does not duplicate the work of other agencies, but is concerned with the unmet needs of handicapped children. He pointed out that the organization is interested in aiding all handicapped individuals, regardless of the cause of their disability.

Scouts in Wayne To Conduct Drive

Boy Scouts in the vicinity of Wayne will conduct a drive next month for the collection of newspapers for the benefit of the camp and hospital committee.

Ralph L. Allen, chairman of publicity, appealed to residents of the community to store old newspapers, magazines, paper boxes and waste from now until March 8. "During the day of March 8," he said, "the Boy Scouts will call at your home to remove the paper you have saved and sell it for the benefit of the camp and hospital committee.

"This committee depends entirely upon contributions or help such as the Boy Scouts are offering to continue its good work of supplying the veterans in hospitals with entertainment and equipment for relaxation.

"Ten Scout organizations in this community have planned the collection campaign so that each house will be visited on March 8. A little help from everyone will make this drive a success," Allen said.

Collections in Strafford will be conducted by Devon Troop 50 under leadership of Scoutmaster Ike Whyte.
